Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Sunday 25 Jul 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Heavy showers in the south, drier in the north.

Today:
Early showery rain in the south fading for a time, perhaps allowing some limited sunny intervals. Further heavy showers developing later, with hail and thunder possible in local torrential downpours. On the cloudy side but drier in the north throughout. Maximum temperature 24 deg C (75 deg F).

Tonight:
Showers and thunderstorms again gradually fading in the south as low cloud encroaches more generally from the east, with mist and fog patches developing. Mild with light winds. Minimum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Monday:
Low cloud clearing to a drier, warmer day, with sunny spells. Further heavy, slow-moving showers are possible later, mainly in the west, these fewer and further between than on Sunday. Maximum temperature 27 deg C (81 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Unsettled through this period, with showers and some longer spells of rain. Temperatures largely below average, in marked contrast to the week just gone. Probably brighter but breezy on Thursday.
